Midrash Theme is: Faith vs Form

Genesis 4, Cain and Abel - Here we have two brothers, Cain and Abel. Abel's name means something like 'a breath' or 'a vapor' which was a good name for him because he was come and gone pretty quickly on the earth. Abel was a keeper of sheep and Cain tilled the ground. But these two brothers were different in other ways too. How can two brothers be born in the same family, and be entirely different from one another? This is a story we've all heard, and probably all think we know and understand. But hopefully as we look into it more deeply we will learn something important about our faith.

Talmidim: Yeshua's Family Album

Like all of us, Yeshua was from a family.

His family was a very important part of His life throughout His entire life.

We can really learn a lot about Him by knowing something about His family.

Here we look at Yeshua's family album.

From Eliyahu

Greetings in Messiah,

What does the world's financial future look like?

I was looking at the US Debt Clock online this morning. The official figure is over 18 Trillion USD ($18,561,652,758,029.00 as of 11:10 AM, CST). That's over One Hundred Fifty-Five Thousand USD ($155,578.00) per taxpayer. Paying that off EVER is clearly impossible.

But it gets worse.

A news article came out earlier in the week stating the official figure leaves out a lot of items, so that the real US National Debt is more like 65 TRILLION USD! How can a country even function loaded down with such a mountain of debt?

Here is the really frightening answer - the picture in some other countries is even WORSE - which is a huge factor in keeping the US financially afloat this long.

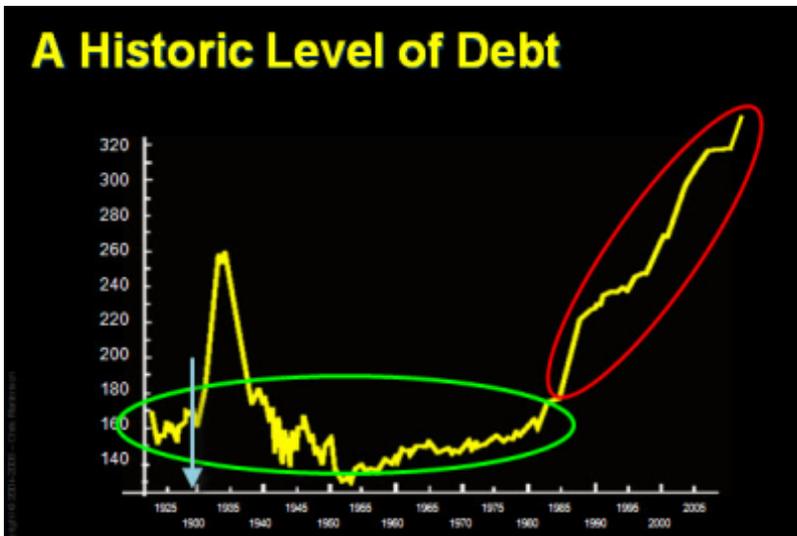

When you add all of this sovereign debt up globally it amounts to far more money than even exists in the world - which is why central banks keep creating so much new money out of thin air.

This excessive money creation is all a banker's trick to make it possible to service the debt (for now anyway) - but never to pay it off. It is a balancing act to try and keep the over-burdened economy from tanking.

It is like a family with a small income putting huge purchases on a credit card until that card is full. Then they get two more cards - one to pay off the debt on the earlier card and another to keep up their spending spree. They may be able to stall off the day of reckoning for awhile, but eventually this scheme will collapse and the creditors will grab all of their stuff. Really, if you or I were to behave with the sort of reckless financial abandon of government we would very soon find ourselves bankrupt and on the street.

Numbers work the same whether on a household or a national, or even a global, level. Make no mistake, this trajectory of using ever-more debt to pay off existing debt can't go on forever. Eventually this sovereign debt crisis has to take the world into the biggest and meanest global economic collapse in the history of the universe.

A Historic Level of Debt

The bankers, of course, know that.

The bankers though, have another trick up their sleeve. It is their trump card and they intend to use it. They are attempting to transition the world to a cashless economy before the house of cards caves in. Thus we find a war on cash going on. If the bankers can eliminate all cash then they will have control over all financial transactions. They can then manipulate the economy in new ways that have never been tried before. They think that if they can obtain this absolute control over the global economy - and over the finances of every person on earth - they can keep the wolf away from the door, and more importantly for them, maintain their position as masters of the world.

This does not bode well for personal privacy or freedom. In fact, it points to control of the individual that is so complete that no one will be able to buy or sell anything if they are not in good standing with this cashless system. They will not be able to opt out of the banking system by withdrawing their cash - because all money will be digital, controlled by the world banking system and the governments under which they operate.

While this scenario may not be the "mark of the beast" of Revelation 13, it will most certainly lay the infrastructure for "the mark" when the "beast" comes to power.

Practically everything that happens in the world system, from peace to war and from poverty to affluence, arises directly out of economic factors. Here are the mechanics behind fulfillment of Bible prophecy. We are getting closer to the end game now, and the world situation as it actually exists is starting to flesh out what the Great Oppression is actually going to look like.

Last week I presented a lot about this and the "mark of the beast" in our Sabbath meeting. This week I'm following up with more details documenting who is actually promoting this war on cash (names here) and why they think they need to take the world cashless as soon as they are able to do it.

Our Tsiyon Partners can see this presentation live in our Sabbath meeting tonight, at 8 CST. Alternatively, Tsiyon Partners can view the recording after it is posted. All of this is available at our Tsiyon Tabernacle website. If you are one of our free members all you need to do to view these presentations is sign up at any level of support, starting at $12 per month, inside the website. Becoming a free Tsiyon member is your first step.

Grasp this, and it will help you to understand just how close we are to Revelation 13. More than that, join with us in taking action steps to be ready in advance of the monumental events soon to come.

Kingdom blessings to you all.

Shalom,

Eliyahu ben David

ISIS hit Americans in Jordan, ISIS now approaching Israel's borders from Three Sides

Source: DEBKAFfile Special Report November 9, 2015

After the Islamic State succeeded in downing a Russian airliner that took off from Sharm El-Sheikh on October 31, causing the deaths of all 224 passengers and crew, the terrorist organization Monday, Nov. 9, put a US military target in its crosshairs. A captain in the Jordanian police opened fire in the cafeteria of the Special Operations Training Center outside the Jordanian capital, Amman, where American instructors train Iraqi troops to fight ISIS. Two trainers from the US, one from South Africa and two Jordanians were killed and another six wounded, including two more Americans and four Jordanians.

The gunman was killed by Jordanian troops.

The modus operandi resembled the “green on blue” insider attacks committed in Afghanistan by al Qaeda and Taliban “insiders” against American and British troops serving at the same base. Jordan’s Al-Rai newspaper identified the shooter as Anwar Abu Ubayd, but other news outlets said his name was Anwar Abu Zaid.

If the downing of the Russian plane rocked the regime of Egyptian President Fattah El-Sisi, there is no doubt that Monday’s attack will shake King Abdullah’s Hashemite throne.

The attack, furthermore, demonstrated that ISIS is rapidly approaching Israel’s borders with Syria in the north, Egypt in the south and Jordan in the east. The assault gained particular attention as it was carried out just hours before the summit Monday between Israeli Prime Minister Binyamin Netanyahu and US President Barack Obama at the White House in Washington.

They met for the first time after more than a year and after a major row over the Iranian nuclear accord. Both leaders made statements strongly indicating that they had determinedly buried the hatchet and were looking to the future of strong and amicable ties and expanded US support for Israel’s security.

A large part of their two-hour conversation was undoubtedly devoted to the threat posed by ISIS, on which they concur.

Until now, Jordan had been home to the most important and secure US forward base for the war on ISIS in Iraq and Syria. US air strikes come from bases in Turkey, but more than 10,000 ground troops and special operations forces troops are present in Jordan. The kingdom serves as a training, operations and logistical center for US missions in Iraq and Syria, and for that purpose a command center, the US Central Command Forward-Jordan, was established outside Amman.

Until now, ISIS had not managed to infiltrate Jordan for attacks capable of destabilizing Abdullah’s rule. Numerous infiltration and terrorist attacks were thwarted by Jordanian intelligence and security. The Jordanian authorities focused primarily on keeping the jihads out of the refugee camps housing Syrians and Iraqis in flight from war zones, but this came at the expense of efforts to block the threat from reaching inside the Hashemite kingdom and its security facilities.

Their first success will no doubt embolden ISIS to keep on pressing its advantage. Immediately following Monday’s shooting, Jordan’s military went into high alert nationwide and along its borders. The US, Russia, Egypt, Jordan and Israel are all boosting their vigilance as the threat from ISIS continues to grow. But no one can reliably predict where the Islamist terrorists strike next.
