In an interview with Bill Gates last year he said: "We have the UN looking at what we can get done by 2030". Since then the UN 2030 Agenda has been adopted by all member nations unanimously with a sweeping program that covers literally all aspects of life on earth. Gates is wildly optimistic about many things for this period until 3030, including this: "Life for the poor will improve more in this 15 year period than it ever has before". This bright picture cannot be the real future, according to Bible prophecy. Prepare now for the changes that are coming. Tsiyon Partners can view this live video presentation tonight at 8 CST. From Eliyahu

Greetings Friends,

Before anything else, I want to say this: I hope you are keeping up with our Weekly Action Points, because if you are, you are getting encouraged! Particularly this week. There is a synergy and a focus here that will build up your hope and strengthen you in your inner man, as you perceive with clarity what Messiah has made available and holds in store for you. Messiah is coming. He is on His way. Your reward is in His hand!

Before He comes this world will go through the greatest transformation that has occurred on a global scale since the Flood. In fact, that transformation is now well under way. The great men of this world, and all of their disciples, can hardly contain their excitement at the vision of the future they imagine is ahead. They feel like gods, controlling and exercising powers over men and nature that could only be imagined a few short decades ago. Further, they are determined to overthrow all of the foundations on which stable society has been built. The first to go must be the God of the Bible, and everything He stands for. His family order, His moral order, even His creatorship, must all be cast aside. The architects of a new world order, a technocratic juggernaut, will not be denied their shot at their Utopian dream. Their target date for final launch is 2030. Far from being the dream they imagine, the reality will be called "the 2030 Nightmare."

In my live presentation tonight I will focus on certain technology mega-trends to see how these could converge in the world of 2030, and have an impact on all of us long before that. These include explosions of knowledge in the fields of genetics, robotics, and hi tech enhancements to the human body and mind. Much of this could be useful to mankind, if it were not for the reckless arrogance and evil intentions of those who control and use this technology as instruments of wealth and power. As long as these false "gods" are in control, this world and its people stand on the brink.

In 2030 this technology will have matured and will be utilized to bring in and maintain the one-world government system. It will, in fact, be a world not unlike some of the sci-fi movies you've seen, inhabited by some ordinary people as well as by a variety of freakish beings and "living" machines. The common thread between them all will be a cultish devotion to the one-world government personified in its astonishingly powerful leader. Oh yes, and also, a profound and murderous hatred for everybody who isn't one of them. This will be intimidation enough for even reluctant people to join up.

Oh, one other thing though. If anyone does join up they will be eternally damned, according to Scripture.

No doubt about it, that world is going to be intense, to say the least. How are we believers in Messiah supposed to deal with that?

We can do it! The Scriptures tell us how, and tonight I'm going to share what I know about that with our Tsiyon Partners, live Online.

Blessing and Shalom,

Eliyahu ben David

Scientific paper which says the human hand was designed by a 'Creator' sparks controversy

The paper's perceived references to intelligent design have provoked anger and calls for a boycott of the journal

A recent scientific paper on the movement of the human hand has faced strong criticism for referring to a 'Creator' throughout.

The paper, titled: 'Biomechanical characteristics of hand coordination in grasping activities of daily living' was written by a team of four researchers, three from Huazhong University in China, and one from Worcester Polytechnic Institute in Massachusetts.

Published in the PLOS ONE journal, the fairly conventional study looked at the mechanics of how we grasp things, and involved the measurement of the hand movements of 30 participants.

However, members of the scientific community have demanded the paper be retracted, for its several perceived references to the pseudoscientific theory of intelligent design and a possibly divine 'Creator'.

In the opening sentences of the study, it claims the link between muscles and hand movements is the product of "proper design by the Creator."

Later, it says human hand coordination "should indicate the mystery of the Creator's invention," and concludes by again claiming the mechanical architecture of the hand is the result of "proper design by the Creator."

Naturally, the multiple references to intelligent design in a reputable journal like PLOS ONE have stoked anger in the scientific community, and many people, including researchers who work as editors for the publication, are now calling for it to be retracted.

The paper's authors appeared to acknowledge their mistakes in the comments section, saying the references to the 'Creator' were down to translation errors rather than a belief in intelligent design.

Other comments on the paper called its publication "unacceptable", and criticised the "sloppy job" done by the reviewers and editors. Some scientists said the journal should be boycotted unless amends are made.

Commenting below the study, the journal's staff apologised that the language referring to a 'Creator' was not addressed during the paper's evaluation.

They also said they were "looking into" the concerns raised, and would "take steps" to correct the published article.

Update: The journal has now announced the paper will be retracted.

Commenting on the website, it wrote: "The PLOS ONE editors have followed up on the concerns raised about this publication. We have completed an evaluation of the history of the submission and received advice from two experts in our editorial board. Our internal review and the advice we have received have confirmed the concerns about the article and revealed that the peer review process did not adequately evaluate several aspects of the work."

"In light of the concerns identified, the PLOS ONE editors have decided to retract the article, the retraction is being processed and will be posted as soon as possible. We apologize for the errors and oversight leading to the publication of this paper."
