Christian "New Testament" translations of Paul's writings are often inconsistent, confusing and even contradictory. Is the fault with Paul, or with Bible translators? This presentation makes the answer to that question crystal clear. Tsiyon Partners can view this live video presentation tonight at 8 CST. Sign up as a free Tsiyon Member here: Tsiyon.net. "Arise, shine; for your light has come, and the glory of YHWH is risen on you. For, behold, darkness shall cover the earth, and gross darkness the peoples; but YHWH will arise on you, and his glory shall be seen on you." Isaiah 60:1, 2

New Streaming Options of our Live Stream!

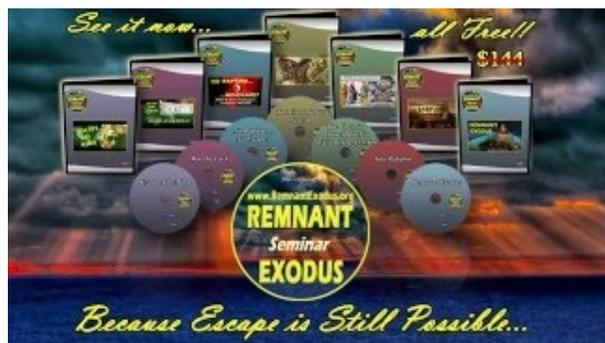

Recently we have upgraded our streaming system for our live stream at Tsiyon Tabernacle. You can now watch the stream in one of four settings: Auto, High Quality, Low Quality, and Audio Only. Find the selection by hovering over the HD symbol on the playback bar when the program is playing. Selecting Auto will allow your computer to choose the setting. High Quality brings a wonderful audio and picture quality but also requires a high speed Internet connection. If your Internet struggles to stream the video, try the low quality stream for the best viewing experience.

Faster Downloads for More Devices: Tsiyon Tabernacle recently received new updates. These updates focus on increasing the speed for MP3 and other media file downloads. The updates also provide better support for a wider variety of devices. This is cloud based so it decreases loading time anywhere on the globe. Want to test this for yourself? Log in at Tsiyon.net and join the Torah Club for Midrash archive access or the Talmidim program for both Midrash and On the Road To Tsiyon access. From Eliyahu

Greetings Friends,

We've just produced a new trailer for our RemnantExodus.Org website. Just click the picture to see it.

If you haven't seen this free Remnant Exodus Seminar yet, by all means, don't miss it!

Also, please link this site to your website, social media, send it to your friends - everybody needs to see this!

One of the most revealing portions of this seminar deals with the historical origin of the Christian Church. Evidence therein shows that the Christian Church actually began as a break-away group from the original believers, with the Gentile schism occurring in the middle of the 2nd century. To justify this schism from the original Hebraic Assembly, Gentile Christians needed to create an alternate view of Scripture that minimized everything Hebraic, from keeping the commandments, keeping Sabbath and other Appointments to undermining the Torah itself. Their main tactic was to reinvent the Apostle Paul in their own image, misinterpreting his writings to make them seem to support their Gentile heresy. Of course, by then the Gentiles vastly outnumbered Hebraic believers, so their heresy went mainstream while the faithful interpretation was vilified by the much more numerous majority. This is the true origin of Christianity as we have come to know it - a mix of truth and falsehood that rightly proclaims salvation through Christ on the one hand, while on the other, turns Scripture on its head, bringing in a host of contradictions and confusion that even now continues to turn uncounted millions away from the Word of God.

In tonight's live message we will look at how misinterpretation and mistranslation have put words into the mouth of Paul that he never spoke! Specifically, we will examine passages of Paul as translated in the KJV and the NIV, using standard Christian reference works, that reveal how the message of Paul has been distorted in Christian Bibles. You can check every fact as you follow along with the presentation, point by point for yourself, to arrive at what Paul really said.

You will learn that while the Scriptures as originally penned are perfect, the same cannot be said for Bible translations that distort the truth. There is no substitute for personal study, using reliable tools, to verify what the Scriptures really say.

Join me tonight in this faithful and careful study of Scripture.

Blessing and Shalom,

Eliyahu ben David

The Brussels airport terrorists were not suicide bombers. A jammed gun averted a mega massacre

Reprint: DEBKAFfile Special Report March 23, 2016

Three Islamist bombers in action and their real faces.

The evidence building up belies the claim by Belgian security authorities that the two brothers responsible for the Brussels outrage Tuesday, March 22, were suicide bombers. They were identified Wednesday, March 23, as Khalid and Ibrahim El Bakraoui, who were known to the police.

debkafile's counterterrorism sources find indications that the two men got away and are still alive. They did not use explosive belts for the bombings that claimed 14 lives, injured scores and totaled the Brussels airport departure hall. But, according to the findings at the main scene of the carnage near the American Airlines desk, they detonated bombs weighing several kilos from their luggage carts, or from the floor underneath.

The massive bomb blasts and metal shrapnel thrown out in the explosion caused injuries in the lower parts of their victims' bodies, according to the descriptions in Brussels hospital websites and social media.

An explosive belt tied to a suicide killer would have caused chest and upper limb injuries.

The taxi driver who dropped the two terrorists off at the airport reported that they refused his help for unloading their suitcases, although they were very heavy. They most likely contained the deadly bombs.

Both brothers wore a black glove on each of their left hands, apparently to conceal remote control buttons for the bombs in the carts they were pushing through the hall. But suicide bombers detonate their explosive belts by a built-in mechanism.

Despite the spreading shock effect of the airport attack, it is also becoming clear that the terrorists only accomplished the first part of their jihadist mission. The Islamic State, which approved the operation, had envisaged a much bigger atrocity. This is attested to by the discovery of three bags containing identical kits of firearms and ammunition, a bomb belt, two AK-47 automatic rifles, magazines and hand grenades – all intact and unused. The police detonated them by controlled explosion.

Those kits were concealed in advance in apparent readiness to strike the emergency teams, the medics, the security forces and the other first responders when they arrived to tend the victims of the first attack. The kits were placed at strategic points, either by an advance team of terrorist operatives masquerading as airport personnel, or a staff employee.

When investigators examined the submachine guns, they found that someone had tried to fire one of them and it jammed. This might explain why the second half of the Brussels airport atrocity, the mega-massacre, was stalled.

By sheer chance, therefore, hundreds of Belgian security officers and emergency aid personnel were saved from being trapped from three directions in a ball of fire.

Belgian police and security units have been chasing desperately, with very few intelligence clues, for a broad network of at least 20 Islamists, who must have spent months setting up the complicated Brussels operations at the airport and Metro station.

The planning would have involved exhaustive reconnaissance, the precise study of the targeted locations, arms providers, logistics, finance, communications and prepared escape routes – before the bombers went in. The two brothers Khalid and Ibrahim El-Bakraoui – misrepresented as suicide bombers – must now be considered fugitives like their companion, the third man seen on airport CCTV in a white coat and hat.

He has also been identified as Najim Laachraoui, 25, the senior ISIS bombmaker in Europe, who almost certainly took a hand in the multiple Paris attacks last November. There were conflicting reports Wednesday afternoon about his capture by Brussels police.
