"Arise, shine; for your light has come, and the glory of YHWH is risen on you. For, behold, darkness shall cover the earth, and gross darkness the peoples; but YHWH will arise on you, and his glory shall be seen on you." Isaiah 60:1, 2

From Eliyahu

Hello friends,

I want to tell you about Tsiyon Academy.

If you are one of our Tsiyon Partners and have been attending our live online Sabbath meetings, you already know about Tsiyon Academy. In fact, you have seen it in action, now in its third week. We've got a lot of great feedback from our Tsiyon Partners about the Tsiyon Academy already, with quite a few already choosing to enroll as students. If you haven't seen it yet, we want to tell you how you can see a sample of the Tsiyon Academy in action, and can learn more about it. Who knows? This may be just the thing you have been looking for!

Tsiyon Academy offers a different kind of experience than most church-goers are used to today. In church there is usually a professional clergyman who delivers a sermon or other content during the religious meeting. This is very different than how the meetings of the early believers were conducted. In those early meetings most of the content was provided by the various members of the congregation, with everyone welcome to participate (see 1 Corinthians 14:26). This was great, because it allowed everyone to be blessed by one another, while each one was able to grow in their communication skills and, of course, in their spiritual life as a whole. All of this reflects the principle that studying or hearing the word is good, but actually taking what you've learned and passing it on is even better! It is through sharing the word that we get that flow-through of the Spirit that helps us mature in so many ways, while also blessing others.

Tsiyon Academy adapts this principle to the online environment. It allows Tsiyon Partners, wherever they live in the world, to study an assignment, to record it, and to be included in our online Tsiyon meetings! This is awesome, because we can all be built up in our faith by our brothers and sisters around the world, drawing the remnant closer together. All of this, while offering each student a chance to express their faith and to grow in their skills of sharing the word. We don't have to be nervous about that, because we will all be growing together. Everybody wins!

By the way, we conduct our meetings in English, but those who are more comfortable with a different language can record their part in that language, and perhaps can find a person to also give us a translation in English. Of course, those who speak English as a second language can just deliver their part in English - don't worry about your accent - we will all love it!

We have created a section of our Tsiyon.Net website for our Tsiyon Academy. Members can just take the link, and learn all about it, complete with a sample video. If you are not a Tsiyon Member yet, its time to Join up!

Partners, join us for our meeting tonight at 8 PM CST. Tsiyon Academy is on!

Shalom, Eliyahu

Putin's low-key Syrian operation - a call to Trump

Reprint: DEBKAFfile Exclusive Analysis November 16, 2016

The Russian air force and navy launched a "large-scale" operation against "terrorists" in the Syrian provinces of Idlim and Homs Tuesday, Nov. 15. Bombers took off from the Hmeymim air base and the Admiral Kuznetsov aircraft carrier while cruise missiles were fired from the Admiral Grigorovich frigate. According to Russian Defense Minister Sergey Shoigu, who addressed a meeting of Russian generals with President Vladimir Putin, the targets were positions of the Islamic State and Al Nusra.

He did not say how long the operation would go on.

debkafile's military and intelligence sources say that the proportions of the Russian operation as seen from the ground better fit the description of low key than "large scale."

No more than 2 Sukhoi Su-33 fighters lifted off the carrier's decks and only a few Kaliber cruise missiles were fired from the frigate. They were not aimed at Islamist terrorist positions, but at arms factories and ammunition stores. Towards evening, a third Russian air strike hit a target in the hills overlooking the coastal province of Latakia.

The timing of the Russian operation was significant. It came five days after President Barack Obama finally ordered the Pentagon to seek out and target Nusra Front leaders, after long holding out against Moscow's demand in this regard, and 12 hours after US president elect Donald Trump and Putin held their first telephone conversation after the election.

Since the attack was too limited to change the military situation on the Syrian war's front lines, what was its purpose? And why was its launch given world-wide exposure accompanied by a photo-op of the Russian president meeting his generals for heightened drama?

It appears that Putin sought by this maneuver to convey the impression that Trump had agreed to the operation during their initial conversation on Monday. It is far more likely, however, that the Russian leader presented the offensive to Trump in general terms and did not hear an explicit negative response. He therefore decided to go ahead with the attack, marking out Islamist terrorists - which the president elect had declared in his campaign as America's enemy - on the assumption that he would not disagree with a Russian strike against a consensual target. By this maneuver, Putin hoped to draw the next US president into backing Russia's strategy in the Syrian war.
