From Eliyahu

It takes faith to start doing cartwheels, as the little girl in the picture can tell you. The problem is, it's scary. It's always kind of scary to do new things. The fact that other kids can do it doesn't mean you can. What if they can all do it, but you try, and find out you can't do it? Then they all might laugh at you. That's definitely a scary thought. In fact, the more you think about what could go wrong the more things you can think of to be scared about. Being scared is no fun at all!

Doing cartwheels - now, that's fun! If you're a kid, all you really have to do is stop being scared of everything, and then just do it! Expect to fall over a few times until you get the hang of it. That won't kill you. Just believe, and keep trying, and pretty soon, you're doing cartwheels! Pretty soon after that, you'll be cartwheeling all over the yard!

Hey Mom, look at what I can do! We-e-e-e-e!

Fear is such bondage! Faith is such fun!

If fear is bondage then the fear of failure may be the worst bondage of all. It is the fear of failure that holds people back from even trying, and if you don't try you have no chance of succeeding. Fear of failure - here are some interesting quotes:

Fear is the abyss between failure and success. – Alexander Zalan

Failures are finger posts on the road to achievement. – C.S. Lewis

Don't fear failure. Not failure, but low aim, is the crime. In great attempts it is glorious even to fail. – Bruce Lee

Success is most often achieved by those who don't know that failure is inevitable. – Coco Chanel

Our greatest fear should not be of failure, but of succeeding at something that doesn't really matter. – D.L. Moody

Act as if it were impossible to fail. – Dorothea Brande

When we give ourselves permission to fail, at the same time, we give ourselves permission to excel. – Eloise Ristad

We shouldn't be fearful of failure because it is not a monster as we think it is. It's just a training ground for those who are really striving for excellence in life. – Euginia Herlihy

Some of the above quotes are from people of faith, and some are not. Nevertheless, they all speak from the experience of overcoming fear. Overcoming fear is always the first step to accomplishing anything of value.

This is where the believer has the advantage over the unbeliever, though. The believer already knows he/she has help from above! If you know your Father in heaven loves you, and is there for you, what more encouragement could you need? Here is what David tells us about fear:

Even though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil, for you are with me. Psalms 23:4

YHWH is my light and my salvation. Whom shall I fear? YHWH is the strength of my life. Of whom shall I be afraid? Psalms 27:1

Elohim is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble. Therefore we won't be afraid, though the earth changes, though the mountains are shaken into the heart of the seas; though its waters roar and are troubled, though the mountains tremble with their swelling. Psalms 46:1-3

When I am afraid, I will put my trust in you. In Elohim, I praise his word. In Elohim, I put my trust. I will not be afraid. What can flesh do to me? Psalms 56:3-4

He who dwells in the secret place of the Most High will rest in the shadow of the Almighty. I will say of YHWH, "He is my refuge and my fortress; my Elohim, in whom I trust." Psalms 91:1-2

YHWH is on my side. I will not be afraid. What can man do to me? Psalms 118:6

Don't let fear of failure stop you! Be an overcomer - just believe!

In Mark 5 we meet some people who overcame apparently insurmountable problems through simple acts of belief in Messiah. This is real, and still happens for believers today, and everyday. Put feet to your faith and get those cartwheels going today! :-)

Russia's Putin unveils new nuclear missile

Russian President Vladimir Putin revealed a slew of new defense systems Thursday, including a new prototype missile that "can reach any point in the world" and a supersonic weapon that cannot be tracked by anti-missile systems.

Delivering his annual State of the Union address, Putin announced increased capabilities in the defense sector, saying that Russia "should not forget about security," following a speech that had initially focused on domestic issues. Putin also said that, if attacked, Russia was ready to use nuclear weapons.

"We see increased opportunities with the armed forces," he said. "We've done a lot to strengthen our army and navy and they are equipped with modern weaponry."

He showed the audience a video of how one of the prototype missiles would work, explaining that the new system would have no limitation on range. "It can attack any target, through the North or South Pole, it is a powerful weapon and no missile defense system will be able to withstand," the president said.

'Listen to us now'

Telling the audience that more was to come, Putin also said Russia had another weapon that was a "small nuclear power energy system" — a nuclear warhead — that can be deployed on a cruise missile system that can also, he claimed, "avoid all interceptors."

He said the country had tested this cruise missile with the "nuclear power energy unit" in 2017 and it was successful. Russia would start manufacturing this now, he added.

"This is unheard of and nobody else has such a system in the world. They might create something like this in the future but by then our guys will have created something new as well."

Putin joked that the two new strategic nuclear weapons he described — the global cruise missile and the subsurface unmanned vehicle — did not have names yet and lawmakers could submit their suggestions via the Defense Ministry website.

Showman-like in the delivery of his address, Putin told the audience "but even this is not the end," unveiling a system capable of destroying intercontinental targets with "hypersonic speed."

"I'm pleased to inform you that after certain experiments, we are sure that soon Russia's strategic missile forces will have a new system capable of destroying intercontinental targets with hypersonic speed and high-precision, able to maneuver both in terms of its course and altitude. There are no systems like that in the world."

He said Russia had been open about the development of such a system but that "nobody listened to us, but listen to us now." Lawmakers gave Putin a standing ovation at that point.

300 new models of weaponry

Speaking more generally about the new developments, he said Russia had adopted 300 new models of weaponry providing the armed forces with 18 new ICBMs (intercontinental ballistic missiles), two submarine-based ballistic missiles. He added that the country had commissioned three new nuclear submarines and also increased the number of its high-precision long-range missiles.

He said Russia had developed new weapons as a response to the U.S.' withdrawal from the Anti-Ballistic Missile (ABM) treaty in 2002. The treaty, signed between the U.S. and then Soviet Union in 1972, barred the countries from deploying defenses against strategic ballistic missiles.

Russia has complained repeatedly about the U.S. placing anti-ballistic missile systems on its doorstep, as a result of what it called "eastward NATO expansion", in the form of the global missile defense system in Romania and Poland.

Putin said that if Russia had done nothing in response, its nuclear potential could have been undermined. Instead, Russia had responded by creating weapons that could bypass the U.S.' global missile defense system.

"After the U.S. withdrew from the Anti-Ballistic Missile (ABM) treaty we've been working hard to develop new promising weaponry systems and this enabled us to make a big step forward creating new strategic arms ... U.S. global missile systems are mainly against ballistic missiles and these are the core of our nuclear deterrent. This is why Russia has been developing extremely effective systems to defeat missile defense and all our ICBMs are equipped with such systems now," he said.

'I'm not bluffing'

Putin insisted that Russia had no plans to attack anybody or to take anything away from anybody, saying "we have everything we need."

But he wanted the weapon development to act as a warning. "I'm not bluffing," he said, adding that Russia was ready to defend herself.

"I hope all these things I have said will sober up any potential aggressor and any unfriendly steps taken towards Russia like deploying missile defense systems and expanding NATO towards our borders. Militarily, this is no longer effective and financially, this is no longer viable and eventually, this is just nonsensical for the people who do this."

"Russia's growing military power is just a guarantee of peace on our planet," he insisted, and it would preserve the balance of powers in the world.

"Those who have been creating new arms races over the last 15 years, imposing unlawful sanctions on Russia to hold our country back, I would like to say, 'All the things you were trying to hold back have already happened, you were unable to hold Russia back.'"

Underwater drones

He also said Russia is developing new underwater drones that can carry nuclear warheads. These were described as un-manned, noiseless submarines that move at ultra-deep levels and at high speed. "This is just fantastic," Putin said.

"There is no defense system that can cope with such subsurface vehicles that can be equipped with conventional or nuclear weapons, attacking coastal defenses and infrastructure facilities." These underwater drones were 100 times smaller than a conventional submarine, Putin noted.

The State of the Union address is the last one that Putin will make before a president election on March 18. Putin is expected to win the election comfortably and enter a fourth term of leadership.

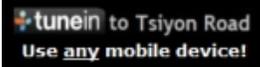

See this video! - September 23, 2017, we were told, would be the date of The Great Sign of Revelation 12. Dire end-of-the-world predictions were made. Yet, after that day of "The Great Sign" came and went, and the predictions failed to materialize, we heard little if anything explaining the failure. This was not the first time this has happened, and won't be the last. Why? Signs in the sky are foretold in Scripture for the last days. True to that prophecy, unusual heavenly signs do occur. In fact, signs in the sky often cause a clamor, with predictions of rapture and the end of the world. Yet, these signs come and go, and the predicted events fail to happen. This, of course, provides an opportunity for scoffers to gloat. Why does this keep happening? Could it be that these signs are significant, but they mean something different than YouTube preachers have guessed? There is, in fact, a unified message in these sky signs. This video, "The Heavens Speak" reveals what that message is.
