From Eliyahu

What was last year like for you? Here at Tsiyon it was, what you might call "intense." We are going to tell that story at tonight's live stream meeting at Tsiyon.Net. You are invited to come and hear that story, and if you want, to comment and ask questions. We will also be talking about, roughly, world events from spring of 2023 until the present, and extrapolating from that (and Bible prophecy) the trajectory of future world events this year and beyond.

To set the stage for tonight's meeting I want to share a few facts regarding how our world has changed since the end of WWII, in 1945. This is a logical place to start, because we are seen by some as still in this post-war era, sometimes known as "the Atomic Age." Further, as you will see, these facts directly effect you in 2024!

The atomic bombings of Hiroshima and Nagasaki in Japan during World War II are believed to be the first and only use of nuclear weapons in armed conflict. Here are the key details:

- Hiroshima: On August 6, 1945, an American B-29 bomber, the Enola Gay, dropped the world's first deployed atomic bomb over Hiroshima. The bomb, nicknamed "Little Boy," immediately killed an estimated 80,000 people, with tens of thousands more dying later from radiation exposure.
- Nagasaki: Three days later, on August 9, 1945, a second atomic bomb, nicknamed "Fat Man," was dropped on Nagasaki by another B-29 bomber, Bockscar. This explosion killed an estimated 40,000 people at the time of the blast.
- Casualties: The total number of casualties from the bombings is estimated to be up to 226,000 civilians, mostly women, children, and elderly. The atomic bombings had a profound impact on Japan and the world, leading to the end of World War II and the beginning of the nuclear age.

Was it morally right for the USA to kill about a quarter million civilians with the bombs? Supporters of the decision argue that the bombings of civilians were necessary to bring about a swift end to World War II, potentially saving lives by avoiding a prolonged conflict or a ground invasion of Japan, which could have resulted in even greater loss of life. Critics say, even if we accept that reasoning for the bombing of Hiroshima, as a necessary example of the destruction the new weapon could bring on Japan - so as to force surrender - how can you justify a second demonstration of mass casualties just 3 days later? With such a massive disaster as the first bomb to deal with, how could Japan even respond within 3 days? This argument suggests at least 40,000 unnecessary casualties, mostly women, children, and elderly.

Present day, I don't intend to try to solve that argument here, but I must observe that the USA administration today is taking a very different stance toward Israel, and their conduct of the Hamas-Israel War, than they took toward Japan in WWII.

At any rate, since 1945 we are all victims of the Bomb. In 1945 the Earth's background radiation level is said by some sources to have been about 1 millisievert (mSv) per year, while others say there was no measurable average background radiation before 1945. This is in contrast to the current average of about 2.4 mSv per year, which, aside from any possible natural causes, originates from man-made sources, the greatest of these being the remnants of 2,121 nuclear tests involving 2,476 nuclear devices tested since 1945, including atmospheric, underwater, and underground detonations. Let me spell that out for you in 2024: C-A-N-C-E-R.

Now, let's look at another big influence during this same era: chemicals. Since 1945, the number of chemical compounds derived from petroleum that have been discovered or invented is vast. Petroleum is a complex mixture of hydrocarbons, and its components can be transformed into a wide variety of chemicals. These include plastics, synthetic rubbers, solvents, fertilizers, pharmaceuticals, and other materials that are integral to modern society in 2024.

Today the use of all these chemicals is so common most people never think about it. However, this has not always been so. The petroleum industry exploded back in the 1950s, with many companies actively engaging in the market to supply chemicals and develop new sources of income from their sale. Further, the chemical industry continues to formulate new compounds for all manner of uses.

Petroleum-based chemicals, also known as petrochemicals, are associated with a wide range of health effects. Studies have linked exposure to these chemicals to an increased risk of various health conditions, including:

- Abnormal neurodevelopment: Conditions such as attention deficit hyperactivity disorder (ADHD) and lower IQ.

- Fertility problems: Poor sperm quality and impaired ovarian development. Further, globally, on average, males today have a sperm count that is only half of that of males in 1950. This trend, if not checked, will bring on the extinction of the human race.
- Cancer: Increased risk of breast, prostate, and kidney cancers.
- Early puberty and metabolic diseases: Early-onset diabetes, obesity, and non-alcoholic fatty liver disease. This is a real reason the population keeps getting fatter.
- Endocrine system: These chemicals interfere with the endocrine system, which regulates key biological processes like brain and nervous system development, reproduction, and metabolism. Even small disturbances to endocrine function, especially during critical periods like pregnancy, has profound and lasting effects.

As we've seen above, the use of petrochemicals has skyrocketed since the 1950s, with most entering the market without serious concern for safety. Today, there are about 350,000 chemicals approved for use globally, but only a small fraction have undergone rigorous safety testing. The elites who own the system have always put profits above the value of human lives, and they have historically used their wealth and power to thwart any effective regulation that could protect the public.

I could raise other major trends, such as genetics, computer-based technology, space technology, electro-magnetic energy technology, and now, the rising specter of AI and robotics. While we all enjoy modern conveniences, we must also come to grips with the real cost to society - and to us. All of these technologies have significant down-sides, at least equally harmful to the 2 examples I have put forward above.

As we've seen, the real global problems originate with the system controlled by the elite, and they never get solved. The harm done to the world is becoming shockingly apparent. It's estimated that between 10,000 and 100,000 species are currently becoming extinct each year. This is a flashing signal indicating that our biosphere is failing to adapt to all of the harmful changes that modern technology is unleashing upon the world. Humans are dependent on that biosphere!

Humanity itself is showing signs of crumbling under the weight put upon us by unmitigated greed. There is a massive price that has been paid in human health and life to support modern civilization as we know it - to make the wealthy super-wealthy. This sacrifice is ongoing in 2024. The momentum of all of this is catching up with us now, in this 21st Century time-frame. We are now experiencing an exponential upward die-off curve such as the world has never seen before. Massive loss of life is culling the global population, with no real end in sight until the coming Kingdom of Yeshua Messiah.

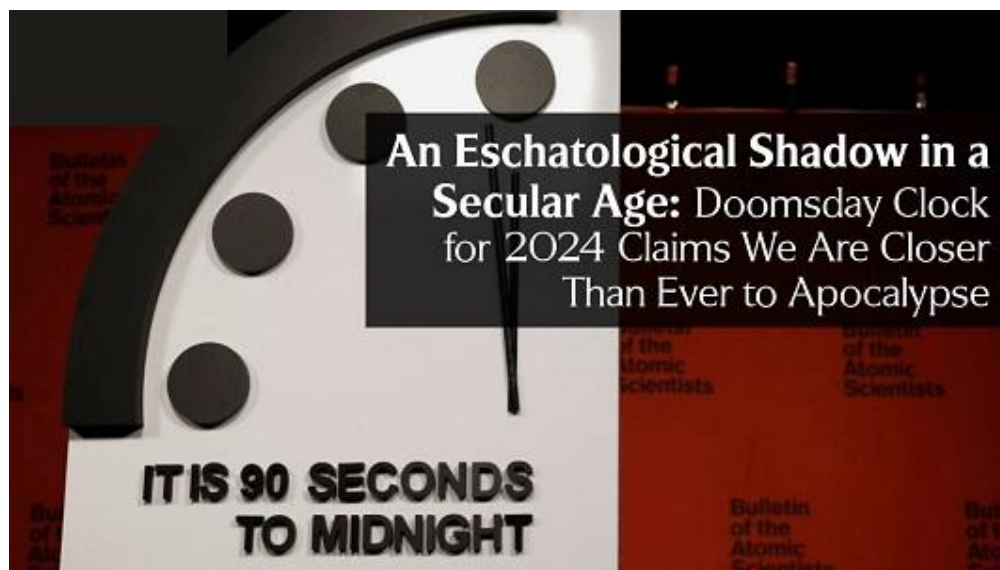

Not very cheery, I know. However, here at Tsiyon we are committed to the truth. This is what is really happening, and we all need to adapt our thinking to the world as it is - not just to how we would like it to be. At our Tsiyon meeting tonight we are going to share our own battle to deal with the efforts the system is making to kill us, in hopes that our testimony can help you to fight off the lethality of the system yourself.

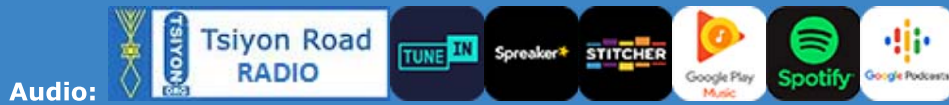

Join us tonight, March 31, 2024, at Tsiyon.Net, at 8 PM, Central, only at Tsiyon.Net. This meeting is especially for you, our Tsiyon Members.

In His Name,

Eliyahu
