Nazi Origins & Government Files

Recently, some government UFO/UAP file releases of older archived materials have brought renewed attention to claims of German disc-shaped aircraft. One reported FBI-file claim involved a man named Paul L. Peyerl, who told authorities he was hired by the Nazis as a photographer to photograph German disc-shaped aircraft during World War II. The released FBI report on the interview even states that a photo was received from Peyerl that he had submitted to verify his claim. The photo was not included in the release of the Peyerl material.

Mind you, if a claim appears in a government file, that does not necessarily mean the government verified the claim. Government files often preserve tips, letters, reports, witness statements, rumors, and investigative leads. A file may record that someone interviewed said something. That is not the same thing as proving that what they said was true.

Nevertheless, it was a real interview including an eye-witness claim that appears in an FBI government-file context. Further, there was a photo from the witness that the FBI reported had been in their custody. Where is that photo now that was submitted to prove the claim, and why is it missing from the file?

Other similar claims of a Nazi origin of flying saucers have been made by responsible people. We don't need to look to the stars as the source for exotic technology.

Why the Human-Technology Question Matters

Many people hear "UFO" and immediately think "alien spacecraft."

But why should that be the first explanation?

The distance problem alone makes routine extraterrestrial visitation a very heavy claim. Even the nearest stars are almost unimaginably far away by human travel standards. To claim that beings from distant worlds are frequently entering earth's atmosphere requires enormous assumptions.

A secret human-technology explanation, by contrast, begins with known realities. Nations build secret weapons. Military programs are classified. Governments conceal research ... and they lie. Scientists and engineers push boundaries. Intelligence agencies mislead adversaries and sometimes their own people.

Postwar German expertise really did enter American programs. More proof is available. Nicholas Goodrick-Clarke's The Occult Roots of Nazism documents a lot of it. The book is described by Bloomsbury as tracing occult and millenarian sects in Germany and Austria that influenced Nazi ideology; National Archives records identify personnel dossiers for more than 1,500 German and foreign scientists, technicians, and engineers brought to the U.S. under Paperclip and similar programs; the Smithsonian describes Project Paperclip/Overcast as bringing German and Austrian scientists, engineers, and technicians to the United States after WWII; and recent reporting on released UFO files says they include claims about Nazi UFO-like craft, while also noting no definitive proof of alien life. (bloomsbury.com)

Advanced aircraft and propulsion research really did accelerate after World War II. So if some UAPs are physical craft, we should at least consider whether they could be human - not necessarily ordinary human technology, but hidden technology, experimental technology, or technology developed under conditions of extreme secrecy.

This does not explain everything. It does not remove the spiritual dimension. But it reminds us that the UFO phenomenon may involve more than one kind of deception. There may be natural phenomena. There may be misidentification. There may be secret military technology. There may be psychological manipulation. There may be occult contact. There may be spiritual deception. And there may be combinations of these things.

The world wants a simple answer: "aliens." The pattern is more complicated.

The Deeper Spiritual Pattern

The Nazi/Vril/Paperclip stream points toward a different danger than the contactee stream. The contactee stream says: "Higher beings have a message for mankind."

The hidden-technology stream says: "Secret knowledge gives power to rule."

Both streams are spiritually dangerous. One tempts mankind to receive revelation from a forbidden source. The other tempts men to ascend through hidden knowledge and technological power.

That is the spirit of Babel. In Genesis 11, mankind gathered itself into one people, one project, one city, and one tower reaching toward heaven. This was not merely architecture. It was unified rebellion. "They said, 'Come, let's build ourselves a city, and a tower whose top reaches to the sky, and let's make ourselves a name, lest we be scattered abroad on the surface of the whole earth.'" - Genesis 11:4

"Let us make ourselves a name." That is the spirit behind every kingdom that seeks unity apart from YHWH. Technology is not evil in itself. Human skill is not evil in itself. But when knowledge, power, and unity are joined to rebellion, they become dangerous. The Nazi world showed how spiritualized myth, racial pride, technological ambition, and political power can join together in monstrous ways. The UFO mythos can repeat that same pattern in space-age language.

A legend is not proof. A legend may contain falsehood, exaggeration, misunderstanding, or deliberate deception. But legends often grow around things people fear, desire, suspect, or partially know. A legend may not tell us exactly what happened, but it can tell us what kind of story makes sense. The Vril legend tells us that some people suspect a direct connection between occult contact and advanced flying technology.

Beastly Kingdoms and Hidden Powers

Daniel saw beastly kingdoms rising out of the sea. These were not merely governments. They were empires animated by spiritual realities. Scripture repeatedly shows that earthly power and spiritual rebellion can work together.

Revelation 13 gives the final expression of this pattern: political power, wonder, deception, worship, image, and economic control. That is why the union of occult knowledge and advanced technology should concern Bible believers. We are not afraid of machines. We are not afraid of the sky. We are not afraid of secret weapons. We are not afraid of rumors. But we are warned against deception.

We are warned against forbidden knowledge. We are warned against signs and wonders that lead mankind into worship of another authority. The final danger is not merely that men may build advanced craft. The danger is that hidden technology may be used to support hidden religion - a counterfeit revelation, a counterfeit savior, and a counterfeit kingdom.

What We Can Say

So what can we responsibly say?

We can say that German occult-racial movements and mythic nationalism were part of the pre-Nazi atmosphere.

We can say that the Thule Society and related currents belong to the real historical background of early Nazi-era ideology.

We can say that the Vril/Aldebaran saucer story points toward occult origins.

We can say that Operation Paperclip really brought German scientific and technical expertise into American programs after the war.

We can say that WWII fighter reports and later flying-saucer claims created a real environment of speculation about secret weapons.

We can say that some government files preserve unusual Nazi-disc claims.

And we can say that the pattern is unmistakable:

Occult contact.

Hidden knowledge.

Secret technology.

Superior beings.

World power.

A new age.

That pattern is the reason this subject belongs in our series.

The Pattern, Not the Legend

We do not need to prove that Vrili women received spacecraft plans from Aldebaran to recognize the spiritual danger in that story.

We do not need to prove every Nazi saucer claim to see that the UFO mythos repeatedly joins occult revelation to hidden technology.

We do not need to accept forged documents to recognize that government secrecy, advanced weapons, and public UFO belief have been intertwined since the beginning of the modern saucer age.

The point is not to chase every legend. The point is to unveil the pattern.

When men reject the Word of YHWH, they look elsewhere for power. Some look to spirits. Some look to hidden masters. Some look to aliens. Some look to secret science. Some look to empire. Some look to all of these together.

But the root temptation is old: "There is hidden knowledge that will make us powerful. There is forbidden wisdom that will open the heavens." There is a path to power apart from obedience to YHWH. That deceptive path is a deal with the devil.

Where We Go Next

In this issue, we have examined the Nazi shadow in the UFO story. We have separated documented history from unproven legend. We have seen that the Vrili/Aldebaran material cannot be treated as established fact, but still reveals a recurring pattern: occult contact joined to hidden technology and the promise of power from above.

Next, we move from disputed legend to a much more documented figure.

Jack Parsons was not a vague rumor. He was a real pioneer of American rocketry. He was connected to the early world that helped give birth to modern spaceflight. He was also deeply involved in the occult world of Aleister Crowley and Thelema. In him, the connection between spaceflight and ritual magic becomes clearer than almost anywhere else.

The next issue will be:

Jack Parsons: Rocketry, Ritual Magic, and the Space Age

Because the closer we look, the clearer the pattern becomes. The old occult world did not disappear. It learned to speak the language of science, technology, and the stars.

Our program tonight: We will be talking about an amazing encounter - not with an alien being - but with the Creator of the universe. He came down in fire and smoke onto the top of a great mountain in an awe-inspiring display of His eternal Godship and sovereignty. He did that to meet with His people, to make a covenant with them. By this covenant they were constituted as a unique and functioning nation, complete with an entire social and legal structure from God Himself. There YHWH constituted His people as the Nation of Israel. This is not just a long-forgotten episode from the ancient past. Rather, it is something of eternal importance to everyone. Our program starts at 8 PM Central at Tsiyon.Net, but if you can't log in for technical reasons check out other popular streaming platforms for our live stream. For example, search "Tsiyon Tabernacle" on YouTube shortly before the meeting and you will find our live stream there. All are invited, so invite your friends.
